QUOTE Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Latvia PRESS RELEASE----- ? Foreign Minister Kristovskis: Latvia's assistance to Japan will be well-focused2011-03-14 16:02:24 During the sitting of the Cabinet of Ministers Committee today, Foreign Minister ?irts Valdis Kristovskis urged to identify the areas where Latvia could potentially provide assistance to Japan. Rendering assistance should be well thought out and well focused, as any aid deliveries should take into account the distance, costs and effectiveness of intervention. In order to ensure concerted efforts, decisions must be taken on the Government level as to the financial limits and the type of assistance to be offered by Latvia. ? "Latvia could offer rehabilitation or recuperation programmes to the victims of the earthquake and tsunami, or a similar type of aid, because we have no possibilities of sending to Japan specially trained rescue units or machinery as other countries do; this however, must be a government decisions," the Foreign Minister indicates. ? "As concerns materials and food, we have received a message from the Japanese side that, so far, local produce is being used. Should the necessity arise in foodstuffs and medical supplies, the Japanese side will notify the potential donors." On Tuesday, 15 March, the Foreign Minister will meet with the Ambassador of Japan in Latvia in order to discuss in detail the assistance Latvia could potentially provide to Japan. A number of people have also approached the Foreign Ministry about a possibility of giving donations for Japan. Minister Kristovskis also indicates that the Foreign Ministry regards as its principal task the provision of consular assistance to the Latvian nationals currently in Japan. The Embassy of Latvia has information about 72 out of 76 Latvian nationals. Two people who had been closest to the earthquake epicentre in the town of Sendai have notified that they are in no danger. Several persons have already left Japan or are about to leave. The Embassy and the Foreign Ministry remain in permanent contact. Taking advantage of the occasion, the Foreign Ministry would like to remind that the Embassy of Latvia keeps regular contact with the relevant Japanese authorities. Travellers currently in Japan can contact the Latvian Embassy by e-mail embassy.japan@mfa.gov.lv or by a round-the-clock emergency phone + 81 80 3449 0093.
